

JHALANA LEOPARD SAFARI

A close-up photograph of a leopard's head and upper body, resting in dense green foliage. The leopard has a golden-brown coat with black spots. Its mouth is slightly open, showing its tongue and teeth. The background is a soft-focus view of the jungle.

Stealth and grace, the untamed spirit of the jungle.

ABOUT

YOU MUST KNOW!

JHALANA

Jhalana Forest, located in the outskirts of Jaipur, India, is a picturesque natural sanctuary that encompasses approximately 20 square kilometers. It is renowned for being home to a thriving population of leopards, making it one of the few places in India where these elusive felines can be easily spotted. The forest is characterized by its rocky terrain, dense vegetation, and varied topography, creating an ideal habitat for leopards to roam and thrive.

Jhalana Forest Reserve was officially declared a conservation reserve in 2016, aiming to protect and conserve the leopard population along with other wildlife species. The forest is managed by the Forest Department and offers visitors the opportunity to experience wildlife safaris and explore the rich biodiversity of the region. The forest's proximity to the city of Jaipur makes it easily accessible for tourists and nature enthusiasts seeking a unique wildlife experience.
